Is Pouce Coupe Gas and Oil Field Being Developed At Last?

Drilling Equipment That Went West Over N.A.R. Wednesday Morning Arouses Speculation

Is the Peace River country about to experience an oil boom similar to that of the Turner Valley near Calgary? When a crew of oil drillers passed through Grande Prairie over the weekend and a flat car of oil drilling equipment slid over the N.A.R. Wednesday morning, all bound for Pouce Coupe, speculation ran high. The following extracts from the Western Examiner of April 25, a Calgary publication devoted to "oil, mining and financial news, will show how far this new development has already progressed without the aid of the usual preliminary ballyhoo:

"John Lund, drilling contractor, and a full crew of drillers left Calgary Thursday morning to commence drilling activities on the Pouce Coupe structure, which is attracting wide attention as the possible next big Alberta oil field.

"A complete modern steel derrick has been dispatched to the field and a big rotary, specially equipped to handle the expected heavy pressures which should be encountered at approximately 2,200 feet.

"It is expected that the crew will be in a position to begin drilling on Guardian No. 1 well, first deep test, by the early part of May with the equipment now on its way and the camp constructed.

"The well is financed to a depth of 5,000 feet, officials said Friday, and will be carried to this depth unless heavy commercial production is encountered at an earlier depth, when production will be taken and the rig moved over to a second location. When the well reaches 5,000 feet the drill will have passed through three heavy oil-bearing formations and a test will be taken.

"Officials of Howey Syndicate told The Examiner Friday that E. F. Cobb of Great Falls, Montana, had been a visitor in Calgary during the week in connection with the contract which has been signed for the purchase of all gas produced in the new field. Arrangements are well in hand for production as soon as it is obtained, out to Vancouver and west coast cities, which is believed one of the most extensive markets for natural gas yet available.

"Mr. Cobb stated that negotiations were ready to close for the immediate drilling of a large number of shallow wells to be carried to the first gas horizons as a joint enterprise with Western Securities. Preliminary arrangements for the building of a 30-inch pipeline to carry oil from the (Continued on Page Eight)

MALE VOICE CHOIR CONCERT ENJOYED BY LARGE CROWD

An appreciative audience thoroughly enjoyed the joint concert of the Male Voice Choir, under the direction of Mr. A. E. Galloway, and the Grande Prairie Town Band, under Mr. Bert Churchill, conductor, held in the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening.

The crowd of music lovers attending these concerts is growing larger and the affirmation of the excellence of their performance spreads, but there is still room for a few more families, so those who attend should assure themselves that they really are missing something worth while.

Wm. Storm was chairman. The concert opened with the singing of "O Canada!"

3. "Men of Harlech" Male Voice Choir. 4. "Honor Band" by the Band.

"Olivet to Calvary" Sunday Evening At United Church

The sacred cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," by J. H. Maubrey, will be presented at the evening service at 7:30 o'clock in St. Paul's United Church, Grande Prairie. The choruses will be sung by the double quartet choir of the church, with solo parts being taken by Mrs. Cann, Mrs. Vaughan, Mr. George Patterson, Mr. J. W. Pickard, Mr. H. C. McInnes and Mr. H. T. Sparby.

The choruses will be conducted by Mr. Vaughan, who will also sing some of the tenor solos. Miss Valerie Ellwood will act as accompanist.

The choir has been practicing this beautiful cantata for some three months. It was intended for performance on Palm Sunday, the Sunday before Easter, but was postponed on account of illness of some of the members.

"Olivet to Calvary" has been for many years one of the most popular of all Easter cantatas, and every year is performed in thousands of churches the world over.

This cantata recalls simply and reverently the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth and some of the reflections suggested thereby. The rejoicing of the multitude with hosannas and palms, the view of Jerusalem from the Mount of Olives, the journey to the Mount at night, form the chief features of the first part.

Part two opens with the Supper of the Passover, at which Jesus washes His disciples' feet and gives to His friends the new commandment of love for one another as the sign of true discipleship. From this the scene passes to the infatigable pathos of the Garden of Gethsemane, the sudden appearance of the hostile crowd, Jesus forsaken by His disciples, His utter loneliness among the ruthless foes, the tumult before Pilate in the Judgment Hall, the Passage of the Cross, the tragedy and triumph of Calvary.

A special offering will be taken for the benefit of the choir, in order to enable them to purchase the new uniform and the coming Musical Festival.

WORK TO START ON THE MONKMAN PASS MIDDLE OF MAY

Albert Smith, manager of assembling of men and supplies for the Monkman Pass highway project, who was a visitor in Grande Prairie on Tuesday, in conversation with The Tribune reporter stated that he hoped to have crews working on cutting the trail working west of Monkman Lake about the middle of May.

Mr. Smith further stated that John A. Johnson of Lethbridge has offered to handle a crew to improve the road already cut. This offer has been accepted and it is expected that work will commence the first of June.

The Monkman Pass Association at Prince George expect to arrange for work to start from the west end of the Pass in the near future.

Atmosphere In The Council Chamber Filled With Sparks

At Special Meeting Of Council Held Monday Night To Consider Proposed Renewal Of Franchise With The Canadian Utilities—Reduction Being Asked For In Street Lighting And Commercial Light Rates—Clean-Up Week Commences May 9.

The atmosphere in the council chamber on Monday night was full of electric sparks and some tobacco smoke. Watts and kilowatts, volts and amperes, and demand charges all seemed to collide in the air. Pencils worked overtime.

The reason for this unusual state of things was due to the fact that the town fathers had assembled in special meeting to consider the proposed renewal of the electric light and power franchise with the Canadian Utilities.

All members of the council were present with the exception of Councillor Simpson, who was out of town.

Although an invitation had been extended to all ratepayers to be present, P. V. Croken, C. C. Fleming and J. E. Thomson were the only ones to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Every phase of the proposed contract was carefully gone into. In answer to a question the Mayor replied that the proposed rates meant on the average an eight per cent reduction over the rates in the previous contract.

Fire Swept Portion Of Spirit River's Business Section Last Thursday

Jack Armstrong, Tailor, in Whose Building The Fire Started, Seriously Burned—Four Buildings Destroyed—Post Office Pulled Out By Tractor In Endeavor To Stay The Flames—Eight Men-Power Of Town Fought The Fire—Contents Of Buildings Salvaged.

(By The Tribune's Correspondent.)

SPIRIT RIVER, April 25.—Thursday afternoon of last week there occurred one of the most disastrous fires Spirit River has known. The whole block of buildings on the post office street was destroyed by a fire which originated in the tailor shop of Jack Armstrong.

From the tailor shop the fire advanced to the vacant building on the corner, owned by Major B. C. Fitton, and from there jumped to Ed Holmberg's store and on to Scotty Cowan's garage.

Valiant work was done by the men of this small town in trying to keep the fire under control. When it was seen that the tailor shop and Major Fitton's corner building were doomed.

Grande Prairie Musical Festival Entries Close May 5

With May 17, 18 and 19, the dates set for the annual Grande Prairie Musical Festival, only a little over two weeks away, interest in the event is again running high. Competitors are reminded that entries close on May 5.

While entries will be accepted later if necessary, it is important to the Festival committee that all entries be in time in order that programs and schedules may be properly made out. The Festival committee are anxious to keep up their record of having this big event run off smoothly and this can only be done with the cooperation of the competitors. Special entry forms are available at the office of the secretary, H. L. Vaughan. A post card will bring as many as needed.

Two new competitions are added this year, one for bands and one for drama in graded public schools. Both promise to be very popular.

It is expected that entries in all classes will be greater than last year, and that the play competitions will be the most ambitious in years. Folk dancing also promises to be an important class this year. In short, the coming Musical Festival will be, as usual, the best ever.

Seeding Here Two Weeks Ahead Of Last Season

Spring is not only here, it is here two weeks earlier than last year as far as the farmers are concerned. Files of The Tribune reveal the fact that seeding had only begun in this district in the latter part of April 1937, while this year from 50% to 75%, and in some cases even 100% of wheat seeding will be completed by the end of the week.

G. D. Dryden, east of town, always early on the land, started seeding last year on April 20. This year he had 50% of his crop in by that date, and has now almost completed seeding.

Robert Cochrane reported 30% wheat and 20% general seeding completed in that district early in the week. With continued fine weather, the acreage will now be considerably increased.

Farmers around Bear Lake, M. L. Tomlinson, F. Thompson, H. Jurney, F. Roberts, J. Donaldson, Joe Moore and others were practically finished seeding on Monday.

C. O. Poole of Beaver Lodge, a Saturday visitor in Grande Prairie, reported seeding in full blast in that section, with 30% to 50% finished. And the story is the same throughout the country.

There is sufficient moisture for germination but more rain in the near future would be welcome. All in all, with such a promising start, there is every hope for a record crop this coming fall.

Carl Brooks of Wembley, Alberta, and Frank Murphy, accompanied by Mrs. Hazen Smith, public relations director of the association, have been busy attending meetings. Monday night Mr. Murphy told the story of the Monkman Pass road out of the Peace into British Columbia to Junior Board of Trade at Mission, where a resolution supporting the project was passed.

Tuesday evening the senior Board of Trade at Mission was addressed, where members also passed a resolution of support, and in addition promised a donation of $100.

Local Chinese Red Cross Committee Answers Crane-Williams' Radio Address

Claim That Invasion Of China By Japan Result Of A Well-Planned Policy Drawn Up Years Ago To Conquer Asia As Well As China—Charge Barbarous Treatment Of Defenseless Chinese Women And Children—Chinese Fighting A War For The Common People Of All Nations.

Editor of The Tribune: We, the Chinese Red Cross Committee, ask for small space to answer Mr. Crane-Williams' broadcast address on Tuesday evening of last week.

At the beginning of his speech Mr. Crane-Williams said that Japan is not a conqueror, but a defender of Chinese lawless bodies and self-seeking war lords, and that the Chinese people would be happier and more prosperous under the rule of Japan. This statement is absolutely false and utterly ridiculous.

The Japanese militarists have been preparing for a war against China for years. China conquered, Japan would be in a position to start on her conquest of Asia.

The invasion of China did not happen by any accident—it is the result of a well-planned policy. As far back as 1894-95, as a result of her successful war against China at that time, she demanded the cession of the Liautung Peninsula in southern Manchuria.

A document known as the "Tanaka Memorial," outlining Japan's policy to conquer Asia, was presented to the Emperor by the late Premier Tanaka in 1927. We have a copy of this famous document and can get more on request.

In face of these facts how foolish is the claim that Japan invaded China to put down lawless bands and Chinese war lords. The truth is that Japan wants the mineral and other resources of China. This is the real reason for the invasion.

China was gradually getting rid of the war lords in the different sections and the people were gradually uniting in an all Chinese national party. Knowing this, Japan decided to strike before the unity could be completed.

In 1931 Japan invaded and robbed Manchuria from us. She wanted territory and was not interested in any lawless bands. We did not resist because we believed in the sanctity and inviolability of international treaties and placed our reliance on the League of Nations. Japan left the League and made war on China. While the League condemned Japan as the aggressor, it failed to halt the advance of the Japanese armies.

When Japan created the incident at Luchow in last July—and not the Chinese, as claimed by Mr. Crane-Williams—China knew what fate was in store for her if she did not resist the invasion, so the nation was forced to take up arms in self-defense.

Mr. Crane-Williams spoke of the havoc wrought by what he claimed were Chinese aeroplanes. This may or may not have been true. However, he failed to mention the merciless, brutal and barbarous treatment by the Japanese army of defenseless women and children. He did not tell us how (Continued on Page Seven)

M.P.H.A. Route Is Marked New Alta. Assn. Road Map

Of more than usual interest to residents of the Peace River country is the new official road map just issued by the Alberta Motor Association. Entitled "The Peace River Highway, Edmonton to Hudson Hope and the Jasper Park Highway," this map includes the proposed Monkman Pass Highway, with a special footnote which reads:

"The proposed Monkman Pass Highway, 132 miles, now under construction, will connect the Alberta highway at Hinton with the gravelled highway at Hinton, B.C."

As this map will no doubt be sent far and wide throughout Canada and the United States, it should do much to make this country known and to attract tourists. An increased volume of tourists cannot help but be reflected in better roads. The reverse side of the map is filled with valuable and accurate information on the various towns and districts en route.

School of the Dance To Hold Revue At G. P. on May 3rd

The first of its kind ever to be staged here, the Dance Revue by the Valerie Ellwood School of the Dance, which will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre, Tuesday evening, May 3, is being eagerly anticipated.

Forty children, from five to thirteen, will take part in the spectacular event. All types of dancing, classical as well as popular, will be featured with colorful and appropriate costumes.

Induced from advance notices, the costumes alone promise to be of unusual interest.

Miss Ellwood, the talented and charming teacher of these young dancers, has been preparing her classes for this event since last September, when she opened her School of the Dance in Grande Prairie. Highly qualified and experienced, having received four years private tuition under Boris Novikoff, ballet master of the former Imperial Russian court, as well as special lessons under the Betty Clark Dance Studio in Victoria, Miss Ellwood conducted successful dancing classes at Victoria and Vulcan, Alberta, before coming here.

The Dance Revue is of special interest at this time also because of the Musical Festival. For the first time Grande Prairie will be able to have entries in some of the more serious folk dancing classes.

Program of Dance Revue

1. A Visit to Nursery Land. 2. The Glow Worm. 3. The Doll Shop. 4. In Grandma's Day. 5. Waltz Clock. 6. Handkerchief Dance. 7. Russian Dance. 8. Spanish Dance by Miss Valerie Ellwood. 9. Bad Fire Totally Destroys Elevator At Prestville

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the United Grain Growers elevator at Prestville Tuesday morning. It is estimated there were about 6,000 bushels of grain in storage at the time of the fire.

Evidently starting somewhere near the top of the elevator about 11 a.m. Tuesday morning, the fire quickly swept through the building, leaving a mass of smoking and twisted debris in a few hours.

Prestville is a small hamlet about two miles from Spirit River, with very little fire-fighting equipment to fight such a blaze.

WESTERN AUTO SUPPLY MOVED INTO NEW HOME

The Western Auto Supply, wholesalers are now at home in their cheerful and commodious new warehouse directly north of the Royal Bank.

Completely renovated, the building, 50 by 32 feet, is divided into a large show-room and a smaller store room. Large full-length windows in front and smaller side windows give plenty of light. A counter runs the entire width of the building and the cases are so placed that stock is easily accessible and in full view.

Freshly and brightly painted, the new premises are a credit to the business houses of the town.

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

By W. D. Albright
"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

Let's be ready for Mr. Cutworm when he comes. Bran, shorts, molasses, Paris green!

What a contrast between the way the soil crumbled this spring and the way it has been cemented together of recent years!

Hotbeds that do not heat so quickly as desired may be hastened in the process by sprinkling with several pailfuls of warm or hot water prior to another thorough tramping.

Gardeners who have good healthy strawberry plants would do well to advertise them in the northern press. Numerous inquiries from intending planters reach us every year and they are not easy to answer satisfactorily.

The way to farm in the West is to prepare and seed as though the moisture in the soil when spring opens were all one expected. If rains come all right. If they fail, one has made the most of his opportunities.

Wherever we go there is something to contend with. If not cold, it is heat; if not drouth, flood, or hail, or pests, or glutted markets, or high taxes, or impossible rents. There is always a difficulty to surmount. We need it. Without effort we should become dissolute and dull. Why not buckle to and make the best of what we have? That way lies rest and satisfaction.

About nine persons out of ten fail to transplant evergreens successfully. A common mistake is letting the resin harden on the roots. A minute's exposure to sun and wind may do it. Although the mistreated transplant may not die at once, it is doomed. Work preferably on a dull, moist day, or when the sun is low. Choose small specimens. Take a spadeful of earth with the roots of each. Have good, moist, summer-fallen soil ready if possible. If that is not possible, fill the hole once or twice with water and let it soak away. Set the tree a little deeper than it formerly stood. Finger the earth among the fibrous roots and firm well. When the hole is nearly full give a saturation of water and when it disappears draw a mulch of dry earth around the tree. As an extra precaution, sawdust may be spread over the earth mulch. All the better if the young tree can be shaded for a while, but this is not always necessary. On the Substation no attention is paid to facing the tree as it stood in the bush; no artificial watering is done after the transplantation is completed and seldom is there a failure to record.

Greenish-Bronze Tint in Reward Wheat

While immature kernels of wheat are definitely objectionable to the milling trade, we appear to lack evidence as to the extent to which the greenish-bronze cast, peculiar to Reward, indicates definite immaturity. In commenting upon a sample of Reward sent recently to the Dominion Cerealists by a Peace River wheat grower, Dr. L. H. Newman says:

"Three years ago we did some work in cooperation with Mr. Albright at Beaverlodge. In the testing of Reward wheat cut at different dates, in connection with this test, we found samples which were graded officially as No. 3, presumably on account of the bronzy cast of the kernels, giving at least as good results as other samples grading 1 and 2. A good deal of work was done in connection with this particular investigation, as a result of which we concluded that the bronze cast itself need not necessarily signify anything.

"The sample you sent me has been compared with samples used in connection with the above investigation, and if we are to take the latter as our guide, there would seem to be nothing to prevent this sample from grading No. 1.

"We have done a great deal of milling and baking work of varieties grown in comparative test plots throughout your country, but especially at Beaverlodge and at some of the Illustration Stations, and find that Reward as a variety is definitely outstanding irrespective of whether it has the bronzy kernel or not, providing of course that it is well developed and not definitely immature."

Raking and Fertilizing the Lawn

A thorough raking is as important to the lawn first thing in spring when dry enough as frequent combings and brushings to a head of hair. Apply plenty of pressure to the rake handle so that all the dead grass will be removed from about the crowns. Dead grass will check new growth. It also acts as a harbor for fungus diseases. Turning the grass in spring is practised by some with satisfactory results.

To get old lawns away to a good start it is usually advisable if one can afford it to apply a complete mixed fertilizer such as the 6-12-9, 4-8-7, or 3-12-12, and apply at the rates of from 1 to 2 pounds per 100 square feet. The figures 6-12-9 denote percentages of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, respectively in 100 pounds of the mixed fertilizer. That is to say, in two pounds of a 6-12-9 fertilizer there is 0.12 pounds of nitrogen, 0.24 pounds of phosphoric acid and 0.18 pounds of potash.

Because complete fertilizers of these different formulae are not readily purchasable in country towns, the following is suggested to approximate as closely as possible a 6-12-9 formula made up of triple superphosphate and (16-20) ammonium phosphate. These two chemical fertilizers are usually procurable in any Peace River town.

0.78 pounds of (16-20) ammonium phosphate and 0.19 pounds of (43%) triple superphosphate.

Add to this 3.3 pounds of average wood ashes and the mixture contains the same fertilizing value as in 2 pounds of 6-12-9. One need not worry too much about the fractions, especially seeing that one knows exactly what is best anyway.

At intervals of every 3 or 4 weeks thereafter top dressings with ammonium sulphate or nitrates may be made at the rate of one pound per 50 square feet, states a United States Department of Agriculture circular, whose author, of course, is thinking of results rather than of costs "under frontier conditions. Do not apply the fertilizer when the grass is wet. If it is necessary to do this, the fertilizer should be sprinkled or soaked down after the fertilizer has been applied. Ammonium sulphate may be applied by dissolving it in water at the rate of 5 pounds per 20 gallons (American) of water and sprinkling it over 1,000 square feet.

Grass for Cemetery—Golden Elders

1. Last summer we broke up all the turf in the cemetery. We propose to seed it in May to Dutch clover or lawn grass. English seed houses quote lawn grass at 25 cents per pound, part freight paid and one pound per 50 square feet, 35¢ about $19.00 or 18 cents per pound. An Edmonton seedman quotes 60 cents in the large quantities. Would the English kind grow?

2. Also can golden elders be successfully planted in spring?—L.C.D. Brownville, Alta.

Ans. 1. Without knowing its composition one could not safely predict whether the English lawn grass seed would be satisfactory. There is as much difference in hardness between species of lawn grass as there is between winter wheat and brome grass. For instance, a lawn sown to bent grass is almost certain to do poorly in the Peace, whereas Kentucky blue grass and creeping red fescue have made the best lawns in the trial plots.

Source of seed is another factor. Some tests of clover seed have indicated that seed from northern countries was much harder than seed from south European countries, or even from England. Such differences would probably be somewhat less marked in the case of the grass seeds.

A Canadian seed house advertises 50 pounds Kentucky blue grass seed at $13.20—about 27 cents a pound. Half a pound is sufficient to seed a square rod, though half an ounce of white Dutch clover may be mixed with it.

2. Golden elders as well as almost all kinds of trees and shrubs are best planted in the spring. The tops are not hardy at the Substation, but the shrub is still alive because it receives from the ground each year as a herbaceous perennial. The dead top should be removed each spring.

BOTANICAL NOTES FOR MAY

(Experimental Farms Note)

The enchanting scent of apple blossoms defies description. It does the evanescent loveliness of May. There is beauty everywhere and in everything. There is rhapsody and romance in this season of growth, fertility, religious rites and folklore. The very dew of May morn is said to beautify the face which is bathed in it. Even the austere Milton was moved to sing: "Hail bounteous May, thou dost inspire youth and youth and warm desire!"

Unhappily, however, there is a kill-joy which rules that May marriages are unlucky. But why? Who knows from whence arose the snag to all this gladness?

When the city air drags the last essence of sweetness out of golden daffodil trumpets and tulips of glowing cups, one must not forget the well-being of the winter garden. So plucky little pot plants that have cheered the home through the sterner months; they, like you, are longing to get out and join in the fun of May; they, too, pine for a frolic and a gambol in the fresh air, the sunshine and the rain.

Meanwhile the wild flowers are scrambling, with breathless haste, to burst into a galaxy of bloom. Trillium, iris, phlox, forget-me-not, pentstemon, orchid, milkwort, anemone and a host of others smile in the pride of their fresh, floral beauty and, so it seems, in the knowledge that they afford pleasure and even joy to so many people. It is earnestly hoped that this will always be; but alas! there are ominous signs that, in the not very far future, this happiness will be denied if the present unrestricted picking and uprooting is to continue.

The floral emblem of Ontario—the large-flowered trillium—one of the most chastely beautiful of our native wild flowers, will, it is feared, be one of the first to disappear. Huge bunches offered for sale in the markets and to passing motorists may be unsold and flung away to wilt and die. Those picked ostensibly to adorn the home have met with a similar fate. It seems that some wild flowers need protection.

On the other hand there are those condemned as pestiferous weeds which can be freely gathered, and with profit. One is the common dandelion, whose usefulness is extolled by authoritative writers.

"Dear common flower that grows beside the way, Fringing the dusty road with harmless gold."

"Tis the spring's largesse, which scatters now To rich and poor alike, with lavish hand; Though most hearts never understand To take it at God's value, but pass by The offered wealth, with unwarded eye?"

Yest even the despicable dandelion is useful, and every part of it—flowers, leaves and roots—just imagine how gourmets and dietitians will smile—nevertheless this humble plant is ready and willing to provide a meal which will, at all events, delight the heart of a vegetarian and should appeal to the votaries of fashionable "reducing" or "blimming."

The blanched leaves and sliced roots provide a bitter salad. The reducer can, with impunity, stuff herself to repletion with the young leaves boiled in two waters to remove the bitterness, then served as spinach. A glass of excellent wine, made from the flower-heads, may be allowed; if not, the feast can be washed down with mock-coffee; about which Mrs. Traill gives the following directions: "The root should be washed thoroughly, but the brown skin not scraped off; as much tonic virtue is contained in this brown covering of the root. This must be cut up into small pieces and dried by degrees in the oven until it becomes dry and crisp enough to grind in the coffee mill; it is then used in the same way as the coffee-berry, with the addition of milk and sugar."

This wine, greens, salad and coffee are provided by this pest of the lawns.

It is this merrie, merrie month of peerless rapture that birds, bees, flowers, earth and sky express with degrees in the essence of the beauty that is in them. From the first trees' foaming blossom the robins' liquid notes are trilled with tireless joy; from the life-teeming swamps cool-fluting frogs send forth their rude-calls; in the drooping disposition of numberless tiny wings the woods shiver with spring delight; the very earth seems to pulse and throb underfoot; and above is "sky as blue it makes you wonder if it's heaven's shining through."

Indeed everywhere the secret of the season is told with breathless lavishness. The whole countryside is drenched with a haze of new life, the room of coming days, and the spring promise that till the end of time the harvest shall never fail.—E. W. Hart, Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

With the Boy Scouts

A Boy Scout troop is being organized among the boy bed patients of the Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal.

British Rover Scouts have been invited to participate in a National Rover Camp of the Belaires de France near Grenoble in August.

Nearly 150 English Boy Scouts toured Scotland by special train during the Easter school holidays.

One section of the Raymond, Alta., volunteer fire brigade is composed of Boy Scouts.

Boy Scouts' No-Reward Code Conventionally, being a Boy Scout, when John Mellers of Chicago found $1,000 worth of negotiable bonds in the street, he returned them to their owner, Mrs. Gertrude Morrow, and declined a reward.

Hitler Kills Scouting in Austria As anticipated, one of the early acts of Hitler in assuming control of Austria was to disband and prohibit the Austrian Boy Scouts Association, the Oesterreichischer Pfadfinderbund. In the past Austrian Boy Scouts and leaders have figured prominently in international Scout gatherings.

Nova Scotia Scouts' Toboggan Slide Patrol

The vigilance of some 30 Yarmouth, N.S., Boy Scouts assigned by the police to patrolling tobogganing and sliding on various hills of the city during a spring icy spell was credited by Chief of Police Bain with averting at least two accidents. One watchful Scout leaped on a sliding toboggan from the path of a rapidly approaching motorcar, and another prevented a sleigh from running into a train at a railroad crossing.

Chief of G Men's Story of a Boy Scout Troop

In a newspaper interview regarding the value of such organizations as the Boy Scouts, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the famous "G" Men of the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, described the case of a gang of boys which was at one time a source of trouble in Topeka, Kansas. The boys finally were organized into a Scout troop, all but one, who wouldn't be a scout. The fourteen boys who became Scouts grew up to be useful and respected citizens, declared Mr. Hoover. "The youth who refused to join was Alvin Karpis, who became American Public Enemy No. 1 and now is serving a life term in Alcatraz penitentiary for his part in a kidnapping."

A Malayan Scout Missionary Here Ooi Peng Guan was a Boy Scout in the 2nd Anglo-Chinese School Troop of Penang, Malaya. In 1924 he contracted leprosy and was sent to the government leper asylum on Jerejak Island. Instead of moping over his misfortune, Guan organized a Scout troop of boys of the leper settlement.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE BY THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

This is the fourth article in a series of six appearing in The Tribune. The information given is absolutely authentic, has been carefully checked and should be of great interest to everyone.

WHAT TO EAT TO BE HEALTHY

Number Four

Every individual requires to eat a certain quantity of vitamin C to prevent scurvy. A lack of vitamin C affects the miles and miles of capillaries throughout the body.

The following foods give you vitamin C: Oranges, lemons and grapefruit, tomatoes raw or factory canned, and most raw fruits and vegetables.

Vitamin C is very readily destroyed by heat. It is essential, therefore, that everyone take each day some raw fruit or raw vegetables. Canadian factory canned tomatoes are an excellent source of vitamin C because the cooking is done without exposure to air.

The lack of vitamin D in the diet causes rickets in children, soft bones and defective teeth.

The following foods give you vitamin D: Cod liver oil, and other fish oil in liquid or capsule form, egg yolk, and sunshine in summer.

As this food element is not obtained in ordinary foods in adequate amounts, it is absolutely essential for every infant and child, and very advisable for every adult, to take some vitamin D during the winter months—from October through to April. One teaspoonful of cod liver oil gives you as much vitamin D as 14 egg yolks or 1,500 servings of spinach. There are available in many parts of Canada specially prepared milk and bread which contain vitamin D.

Much has been said and written in recent years about the vitamins, but not all that one hears and reads about them is true. Food faddists and exploiters have loved with the vitamins extensively.

They have a very important part to play in normal diet for normal people and if you follow carefully the information contained in this series of articles on "What to Eat to Be Healthy" you will secure authentic information and practical advice on the foods you should eat.

The next article in the series will deal with minerals in the diet. Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

PRESTVILLE, April 26.—On Friday, April 22, a most successful "Major Bowes" amateur night and dance was held in the Prestville school-house in aid of the Monkman Pass Highway Association.

Mr. J. Johnston opened the concert with a few well chosen words explaining the purpose of the gathering and introducing our local "Major Bowes."

As "Major Bowes," Mr. W. Rutherford blossomed forth magnificently in his new role.

The several contestants helped to put over an excellent program. The first prize was won by the Croatian Orchestra; the second by Ivan Parks in a cowboy number. The prizes were donated by M. J. The dance was well attended. Music was donated by the Croatian Orchestra; Mike Bayers, Bud Rutherford and Mr. Rutherford.

A sum of thirty dollars and forty-five cents was cleared.

Aluminum-Faced Wallboard Now Being Made

Combines High Insulating Value Of Shiny Aluminum Foil With Fireproof And Non-Shrinking, Non-Warping Qualities Of Gypsum Wallboard.

A new radically different wallboard is now being manufactured and introduced in western Canada for the first time by Western Gypsum Products Limited, Winnipeg. It is aluminum-faced Stoneboard, combining in one product the extremely high insulating qualities of shiny sheet aluminum and the fireproof, rigid, permanent qualities of Stoneboard.

The efficient insulating value of shiny surfaces was discovered many years ago, a principle which is best demonstrated by the Thermos bottle. As a result, aluminum foil is today used to provide modern efficient insulation in countless fields.

Admiral Byrd used aluminum foil to keep the heat in his Antarctic home, while the British Army protects its hutments against the heat of the Egyptian and Arabian deserts with the same material. The great navies of the world and many merchant ships use aluminum foil to insulate the hull, living quarters, and cold storage compartments against adverse temperatures.

Railroad rolling stock of many types and truck bodies have been insulated with aluminum foil, as have baking ovens and electric refrigerators. The use of the material also extends into the ovens and furnaces of manufacturing plants, into steam locomotives, boiler rooms, and piping. In the case of homes and buildings the desirability of providing insulation has received its greatest emphasis during the past decade, and today there are thousands of homes and buildings in this country made comfortable through the use of aluminum foil insulation.

Now with aluminum foil laminated to one surface of Stoneboard, all the well-known fireproof, non-shrinking, non-warping, permanent qualities of Stoneboard gypsum wallboard are added. Like standard Stoneboard, aluminum-faced Stoneboard can be applied by any practical man who is building a new house or improving his present house. Furthermore, there is only a very small difference in the cost between regular Stoneboard and new super-insulating aluminum-faced Stoneboard.

Building supply dealers all over the West have already taken delivery of the new board and are ready to supply the needs of their respective communities.

HARDY NATIVE ORNAMENTALS

There are many native shrubs that are admirably suited for ornamental purposes. Some have brightly colored bark for winter decoration, most of them are ornamental in bloom, and many carry showy displays of fruit, and not a few because of colored foliage are pleasing throughout the summer. Many of them assume multi-colored foliage in the fall as a parting farewell that they may the longer be remembered during the drab dull days of winter. All are reliably hardy and can be secured for the lifting from the nearest bluff or coulee. The different

At the Experimental Farm, Indian Head, many native species have been tested. Among those that do well and warrant further consideration are: Saskatoon (amurhar), dwarf birch (Betula pumila), horwood (Cornus stolonifera), hawthorn (Corylus), hawthorn (Crataegus), silverberry (Elaeagnus), honeysuckle (Lonicera), chokecherry (Prunella virginiana), fragrant sumac (Rhus trilobata), roses (Rosa), buffaloberry (Shepherdia arbuscula), meadow sweet (Spiraea alba), "snow" (Syrphocarpus), high-bush blueberry (Viburnum opulus), nannyberry (Sambucus racemosa).

There are also several sorts that are trailing or climbing that are very useful. The native grapes, honey-suckle, bitter-sweet, and clematis are valuable for training over the verandah, arbor or fence.—R. M. Wilson, Dominion Experimental Farms, Indian Head, Sask.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strang
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"I intend to seed ten acres of my best summer fallow with First Generation Registered wheat," said a farmer to me recently. "Can you give me a few hints on sowing and taking care of this seed field?"

"Gladly," I said. "First clean out the seed drill thoroughly and scrape the mud from the discs or hoe drills."

"Be sure the seed, after treating for smut, is poured from the sacks straight into the drill box, so that it will not become mixed with other kinds of grain."

"As the seeder arrives at the edge of the field to be sown, scrape the mud or dirt from the tires and spokes of the wheels, and clean out the horses' hoofs, because this dirt often contains a good deal of other grain."

"Sow the field carefully, leaving an alleyway about three feet wide around it, or instead, if you desire, circle the field with a drill width of wats; then cut these out for green feed after they head out."

"Special care, too, must be taken in threshing and harvesting, but I will tell you about that later."

"But this is a lot of extra work, Mr. Strang, isn't it?"

"Yes," I replied. "It is, but don't forget that extra work is the price we ever have to pay in life to gain an extra reward."

Following factors have tended to raise price: Frost damage reported in Texas and Oklahoma—Chow deficiency in Austria—Banana of Roumanian exportable wheat surplus of poor quality—Moisture deficient over parts of North Africa—Belgium buying Russian, American and Argentine wheat—European domestic supplies reduced—Export northern Italian crop will be a failure.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Rains in Australia—Seeding started in western Canada—Lessened political conditions throughout Europe—Rains over large areas of Balkans and Hungary—Prospects of increased wheat acreage in Argentina—Germany mixing large proportion of corn and potato flour with wheat flour.

Father Conway..

Father Conway would meet with similar cooperation in his new field. Dr. O'Brien was, as usual, brief. He observed that wedged in as he was between the law and the cloth, he scarcely knew what to say. He did not like the practice of moving men three years just when they were being understood. It was all right to move a man at the end of a year, but Dr. O'Brien made it quite clear that he was opposed to moving a man after three years of residence in a community. The doctor pointed out that there was good fishing in the Williams Lake country and he hoped to join Father Conway some time on a fishing holiday.

After thanking Father Conway for the interest he had taken in tennis, Dr. O'Brien referred to the satisfaction which he experienced when defeating him on the tennis court.

J. P. McInnes said that it had been his privilege to know Father Conway and be associated with him since he came to Grande Prairie and he admired Father Conway's public spirit.

Mr. McInnes then touched on the admirable cooperation which existed here among the people of the various religious denominations.

The speaker predicted that Father Conway would meet with the same success at Williams Lake as he had here and he wished him God-speed. President Bert Bennett, who had arrived from Spirit River, where he had helped to fight a fire, was introduced. He said that he was sure that if all of Father Conway's friends had come it would be necessary to enlarge the building. On behalf of the Athletic Association, Mr. Bennett presented Father Conway for all that he had done in the interest of sport.

The president then asked Art Scribner, captain of the hockey team, to step forward and receive the dress sweaters for each member of the team presented by the Athletic Association. Scribner got a great hand as he marched back to his seat.

Continuing, Mr. Bennett observed that to have a prosperous town and district good clean sport was necessary. He then shook hands with Father Conway and wished him success.

Presentation
The chairman, Mr. Charo, then presented Father Conway with a purse of money.

Father Conway, in reply, said: "You can rest assured that I am sorry to break with so many friends."

At the moment, Father Conway said, that so far as making a speech was concerned he was reminded of a story of a couple who had just been united in marriage. The groom went to the altar for a speech and was asked to give the bride away. He said: "I have this thing forced upon me."

Father Conway invited everyone to call and see him at Williams Lake, where his cabin was located. He then to his Peace River friends, and he added, whatever he had done for sport he had done willingly.

In closing Father Conway said that sport teaches boys to be good winners and good losers, adding, "I backed Cornwall against Trail. I lost, but I am glad that the championship, since Cornwall could not win, came to the West."

Singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought the occasion to a close.

AERONAUTICAL TIT-BITS

By J. W. Neil

THE WORLD'S GREATEST FLIGHT

A. E. Clouston, test pilot at the Royal Aircraft Establishment, Farnborough, and Victor Ricketts, air reporter on the Daily Express, deserve full credit for having made the world's greatest flight—so far.

They have made several flights round the upper part of the world since six officers of the U.S. Army Air Service started to fly round the northern hemisphere in 1924—a feat in which two of them were killed.

The journey included all those features which make so-called "record flights" objectionable, in that if they fail they do more harm than good by advertising the danger and inefficiency of flying as it is today, thirty-five years after flying started.

The Comet which carried Clouston and Ricketts flew for thousands of miles over open sea, in which, if they had been forced down, they would never have been found. Equally, it flew over savage country where it could have disappeared as completely as did Kingsford-Smith or Mrs. Putnam.

The performance was as reckless and as foolish, from many points of view, as any of those in which people have disappeared and have caused large sums of money to be spent and valuable lives to be risked in searching for lost aviators. In spite of all that, it was worth doing, because it did something which has never been done before: It brought the furthermost dominion of the British Empire within a week of home, and that was magnificent.

The whole thing was a triumph for Clouston's unusual ability as an organizer and navigator and for the courage and endurance of both pilots.

The heroes of this performance showed the Empire and the world how easily could be carried today and how the farthestmost dominions could be reinforced today by air force if things were properly organized. We can only hope that these lessons will not be lost on those who are responsible for both the service and the civil side of the Air Ministry.

The aeroplane itself was built for the Robertson Trophy Race in 1934. It is a masterpiece of the modern Lockheed, which designed it, at a much earlier date. Its motors are a production version of the specially boosted racing motors which were used by Charles Scott and the late Tom Black in the Robertson race. The machine was in fact slower than it was with the other motors, though it was safer in that its present motors are of a type reliability for reliability is surpassed by any motor of any power in any country. Therefore the fact remains that the machine is definitely not of the most up-to-date type. It had been crashed several times and had been used for various stunt flights. And thanks to the way in which it had been rebuilt and refitted it is still a credit to its makers and designers. But it is an old aeroplane and the fact that such a shattering performance can be done in an ancient machine is the best possible proof of the need for a general shake-up and awakening of British civil aviation.

Whether Clouston and Ricketts have beaten or have set up any new records matters very little. What matters is that nobody has travelled from England to New Zealand as fast before and nobody has come back so fast. And nobody has been there and back as fast. Also nobody has been to Australia and back in such a short time. What now remains to be done is to organize properly a multi-service over the same course, preferably by a flying-boat, because of the long overwater journeys, in which, flying by day and night, we can set a standard by which the development of air mail flying and R. F. reinforcement can be judged for the future.

The Journey
The log of the flight is as follows: (all times G.M.T.):
March 15—Left Gravesend, 20.20 hours.
March 16—Arrived Cairo (2,200 miles), 08.07 hours (average speed 106 m.p.h.). Left 00.22 hours.
Arrived Basrah (947 miles), 14.05 hours (106 m.p.h.). Left 10.22 hours.

March 17—Arrived Allahabad (2,100 miles), 03.20 hours (108 m.p.h.). Left 04.50 hours. Arrived Penang (1,920 miles), 15.05 hours (103 m.p.h.). Left 17.45 hours. Arrived Singapore (310 miles), 19.54 hours (145 m.p.h.). Left 20.40 hours.

March 18—Arrived Darwin, Australia (2,150 miles), 08.25 hours (109 m.p.h.). Left 17.30 hours.

March 19—Arrived Sydney (2,020 miles), 08.30 hours (172 m.p.h.). Left 21.30 hours.

March 20—Arrived Blenheim, New Zealand (1,350 miles), 04.57 hours (181 m.p.h.). Left 21.30 hours. These times (G.M.T.) mean an overnight stop in New Zealand.

March 21—Arrived Sydney (1,350 miles), 06.01 hours (159 m.p.h.). Left 17.30 hours.

March 22—Arrived Port Darwin (2,020 miles), 04.56 hours, after a short stop at Adelaide. Left 21.52 hours.

March 23—Arrived Batavia (1,740 miles), 05.50 hours (218 m.p.h.). Left 00.45 hours. Arrived Singapore (300 miles), 09.38 hours (108 m.p.h.). Left 17.47 hours.

March 24—Arrived Calcutta (1,840 miles), 03.45 hours (184 m.p.h.). Left 05.00 hours. Arrived Allahabad (480 miles), 07.45 hours (107 m.p.h.). Left 20.28 hours.

March 25—Arrived Karachi (900 miles), 01.42 hours (176 m.p.h.). Left 02.50 hours. Arrived Basrah (1,270 miles), 10.00 hours (182 m.p.h.). Left 20.28 hours.

March 26—Arrived Cairo (975 miles), 08.46 hours (169 m.p.h.). Left 04.18 hours. Arrived Marseilles (1,700 miles), 13.32 hours (185 m.p.h.). Left 14.55 hours. Arrived Gravesend (940 miles), 17.42 hours (176 m.p.h.).

By the routes taken the outward journey was about 13,050 miles and the homeward, with more stops, about 13,300 miles. The whole flight, therefore, took in greater distance than a circuit of the earth at the Equator, which is 24,868 miles.

CANADIAN LICENSE CHANGES

Changes in the conditions of issue of Public Transport Pilot's Certificate are announced by the Controller of Civil Aviation for Canada. The minimum age is raised from 19 to 23 and the maximum age is 45. Proof of at least 500 hours flying as pilot in charge of an aeroplane must be submitted, compared with 250 hours under the old regulations. The height test, which formerly required that the candidate should fly for an hour at 6,000 feet, now requires a height of 12,000 feet. The night-flying test is three trips of not less than 15 minutes each at 1,500 feet. Only one trip of 30 minutes' duration was required under the old regulations. The recovery from spins must now be done blind. Some of the flying tests may be waived for holders of valid commercial or limited commercial air pilot's certificates. These changes will take effect on July 1, 1935.

TRANS-CANADA AIR MAIL

According to the "Aeroplane," in spite of better aeroplanes and equipment, the test flights on the Winnipeg-Vancouver section of the Trans-Canada air mail route have been rather disappointing. The record of complete flights has in fact been less good than that which was established by the pilots on the run in 1930-32, when old Fokkers, Boeings and Latracs were used instead of the modern Lockheed. Moreover, in those days there were no radio beacons as there are now. The Aeroplane correspondent says that the weather of 1935 has been bad, to which we agree. The operators console themselves with the thought that a slow starter is generally a good finisher, and that undertakings which have trouble at the start generally develop well. And, anything better than having to reorganize things when they have assumed a regular shape.

SPRING IS THE CANADIAN FARMER'S BUSIEST SEASON

Throughout Canada millions of acres of land are being cultivated and seeded to field crops. Last year the value of the field crops produced in the Dominion was more than $556,000,000. Scenes like the following are to be seen in every province, and suggest why agriculture is Canada's biggest and basic industry. Top, left, plowing on a farm in on a farm in eastern Canada with the old reliable farm power—horses; top, right, plowing in western Canada with a modern tractor. Bottom, left, prepping the seed bed with disc and harrow; and, lower right, seeding in expectation of a good crop.

GREY OWL VISITS FAMOUS NATURALISTS SHORTLY BEFORE DEATH

Perhaps the last photograph to be taken of Grey Owl, famous Indian naturalist, before his death, shows him with his wife, Silver Dawn, when he recently visited Jack Miner's bird sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario. Local Chinese ...

The Japanese army destroyed hospitals, schools and universities, whether flying Chinese or foreign flags. No, he did not tell his listeners these things. The Japanese commander gave orders to his aviators to bomb the property of any national. This command was obeyed and we had the bombing and sinking of the American gunboat, Panay, and the wounding of the British Ambassador to China while travelling in a motorcar bearing the British flag.

China has been always a peaceful-loving country. We are forced to fight for our liberty and freedom now. During the past ten months our people have suffered, possibly as no other people of the world ever suffered. That suffering has burned into our hearts and we have an unflinching resolution to save our nation or die. We feel that justice is on our side and we will continue to fight until every Japanese soldier is driven from our soil.

Mr. Carson-Williams stated that the Chinese people would be more prosperous and happier under Japanese rule. This is another ridiculous statement. We would like to ask how Canadians would feel if they were forced to live under the rule of Hitler or Mussolini? We ask, would they feel happier? There is just as much sense in one as the other.

We much appreciate the many donations to our Red Cross Fund, which we will continue to accept until the end of the war. China in her struggle

Peace River Oldtimer Dies at Keg River (Edmonton Bulletin) PEACE RIVER, April 25.—T. Allen Brick, 73 years of age, one of the oldest of oldtimers in Peace River, died at the home of his daughter in Keg River, Monday morning, according to advices received here. With the passing of "Allie" Brick goes a character known familiarly throughout the entire north country to the Arctic and many a fire-side tale and reminiscence will find expression when it becomes known that he has passed on.

Son of the Rev. Gough Brick, first Anglican missionary in the North, and winner of the Chicago International wheat championship in 1893, Allie Brick farmed in the Old Wives district and afterwards in the Shafterbury Settlement, 12 miles up the river, where the old Dunvegan trail wound its way up to the plateau from the flat and known as Brick's Hill. He was the first member of the legislative assembly for Peace River and, on his first trip out, made the overland trip with a toboggan to which was hitched a tame moose.

He was a man of tremendous strength and limitless energy, while extremely cold weather apparently had no effect on him in his middle-age when he would take a bet that he could do his chores at 33 below zero with nothing but a pair of overalls on, and he could and did do it frequently without any apparent discomfort.

He was a Liberal in politics and during his 33 years residence in this district he was sought by all manner of authors and historians for anecdotes and first-hand information on many subjects peculiar to the early days.

Freud Brick, formerly Chief Field Supervisor of the Soldiers Settlement Board, now retired on superannuation, is a brother.

Take Weeks To Go To Dawson, Flies Out In Few Hours

Mr. Chapman, Merchant At Dawson, Y.T., Who Was A Passenger On The Yukon Plane Which Landed At Grande Prairie On Sunday, Had Not Seen Out Of The North For Thirty Years—Plans Arrived At Edmonton Eight Hours After Leaving Dawson.

To leave Dawson City, Y.T., after a rather early breakfast and arrive in Edmonton, Alberta, in time for lunch was the thrilling experience of Mr. Chapman, clothing merchant of Dawson, who was a passenger on the southbound Yukon plane which landed at the Grande Prairie airport on Sunday morning. If regular air travel was a commonplace to Mr. Chapman, this might not have been so remarkable, but since this was his first trip outside in 30 years, the contrast was nothing short of miraculous.

In 1908 Mr. Chapman left Vancouver by steamer for Skagway. There he took passage on the railway to Whitehorse. From Whitehorse he followed the water route to the Yukon River, arriving at Dawson some two weeks later. On the morning of April 24, 1934, he boarded a plane at Dawson at 4:30 a.m. and landed at the Grande Prairie airport at 10:30 a.m. Pilot Ted Field was at the controls and made that distance in one hop. After refueling and taking on a passenger, Miss Crilly, the big Norseman took off and landed at Edmonton about 12:30, eight hours after leaving Dawson, Y.T.

The Sunday mail plane from Edmonton via Peace River landed at 11 a.m. J. A. Weicker of Sexsmith was a passenger from Edmonton. Last Thursday's northbound Yukon plane brought Dr. Nixon and Miss D. Johnson for Grande Prairie. C. W. Gregg of Mayo, Y.T., was a northbound passenger on the same plane. The southbound mail plane took Miss J. Hamilton and Miss Horton to Edmonton.

assisted Postmaster Field in getting out all post office boxes, taking same across the street.

They then obtained the 90-horsepower Caterpillar tractor which the municipality recently purchased and by use of long cables succeeded in tearing down the post office building and getting same out of the way before the flames reached it.

It was thought that with the aid of the two chemical tanks, one owned by the village, along with bucket brigades which were formed, the Holmberg's place was on fire. An effort was made to get as many of the goods out of the store as possible. Amount of goods lost is unknown at present.

The fire-fighters then concentrated on saving Scotty Cowan's garage. They fought hard to save this building but it was soon razed to the ground by the fire.

Efforts were then concentrated on keeping the fire from spreading to the residential section of this block, which lies to the west, and while fire broke out in a number of places, all were extinguished before they really got a start.

At the time of writing the cause of the fire has not been definitely ascertained. Mr. Armstrong is the only one who may know and at present he is in the Spirit River Hospital recovering from serious burns. He is making good progress and within the next few days may be able to leave the hospital. One report has it that gasoline exploding in his tailor shop started the blaze.

The loss of this disastrous fire has not been totaled yet, but it is sure to run into thousands of dollars. Mr. Armstrong lost all his goods, except a sewing machine. It is believed he has the fire-fighters in an effort to save Ed Holmberg's place.

association. The directors were chosen for their fitness to manage the various branches of sport.

The financial statement, audited by John Redmond, showed the association in a sound position. This statement will be printed in The Tribune as soon as possible.

The president remarked that the officers at all times did their level best.

While the vote was being taken on the officers there was a little round table talk on the question of a gymnasium for the youth of the town. Charlie Turner, president of the Grande Prairie branch of the Canadian Legion, drew attention to the negotiations going on between the federal government and the Legion with a view of the latter obtaining possession of the immigration hall. He believed this would be done. The Legion, he said, would like to work in cooperation with the Athletic Association in the matter of putting in a gymnasium.

The necessity of a swimming pool was also stressed. P. W. Parrish suggested that the association should also sponsor a canoe. He was given assurance that this matter would receive consideration.

The meeting went on record as being in favor of calling a meeting of representatives of the various districts to set dates for the various annual sports and picnics in order to prevent conflicting dates.

The president, vice-president and secretary were authorized to sign cheques.

Northern Carnival Committee
The meeting brought to a close, the association then re-organized itself as the Northern Winter Carnival organization, which no longer existed. J. A. Kerr, who was in the chair, explained that this was necessary in order to have the balance in the bank credited to the Northern Winter Carnival committee, transferred to the Athletic Association, which had taken over the function of the old carnival committee.

Charlie Turner explained that some years ago three trustees were appointed to hold in trust the surplus money of the Northern Winter Carnival committee and that J. H. Hunter was the only member here at the present time.

Jack Kerr was elected president; P. V. Croken, vice-president, and W. Storm. These officers will also be the trustees with power to act.

field to Bella Cools, 430 miles away, on the coast, and a further 20-inch pipe to Vancouver, 450 miles, for the transport of 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily to the coast market have also been made, Mr. Cobb stated.

"Meanwhile, Batchereller Syndicate No. 1, which has been waiting the arrival of drilling rods for a few days, was again drilling at the week-end at 950 feet, having struck a good flow of gas at 495 feet. It is expected this hole will be completed in the St. John sand, a 40-foot formation which carries oil at the old Imperial well, where it was drilled at 1,100 feet.

Seepage of oil was discovered in the valleys east of Pouce Coupe and Rolla many years ago. In 1929 the Imperial Oil drilled a well about 15 miles northeast of Pouce Coupe. A heavy flow of gas was struck and later the oil strata was reported reached at around 1,100 feet. The well was then capped and the field apparently abandoned by oil men until 1929, when new oil companies were reported to have secured leases with the invention of starting drilling.

The proposed piping of gas from the Pouce Coupe field to Vancouver and oil to Bella Cools, B.C., opens up exciting possibilities for the early development of coast outlet and is one which will not be overlooked by the Monckman Pass Highway enthusiasts. This concrete evidence of outside interest in the Pouce Coupe oil field cannot help but be reflected in increased business and general development throughout the Peace River country. Who knows but that it may be the beginning of a new era of prosperity!"

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

AGAINST THE LIGHT

This scene was snapped against the light, so shadows come toward the camera. Ordinary exposure gives the silhouette effect. A lens shade must be used—if direct sun rays strike the lens, they spoil the picture.

HAVE you ever tried taking pictures "against the light"—that is, with sun or photo lights beyond the subject so that the shadows point toward you instead of away from you?

This lighting is a source of many interesting pictures. Striking silhouettes of trees and persons can be obtained. Sunlight, coming from above and slightly behind the subject in an informal portrait, gives appealing highlights on hair and shoulders. Numerous "different" effects are possible.

When you take such pictures, your lens must be shaded so direct rays of sunlight or artificial light do not strike it. An inexpensive lens hood or sun shade (see diagram) is very useful, and slips on easily. Indeed, it is an advantage to use such shades for many pictures. It cuts out stray light and reflections, gives brighter, "snappier" pictures.

Of course, when the sun is low in the sky—almost on a line with your lens, the hood may not help, but frequently you can find a position where the sun will be hidden behind a tree trunk. Then the shadow of the tree will serve to shade your lens.

In "against the light" pictures, shadow side, use an exposure two or three times as long.

For informal portrait studies, with the sun back of your subject, arrange a sheet of white cardboard or cloth so that it reflects light on the subject's face. And when the sky is the background of your pictures, use a sky filter on the lens. This darkens the sky a bit and makes sunlit subjects stand out. It slips on the lens just as the sun shade does.

FRED MACMURRAY GROWS MOUTACHE FOR NEW FILM

Girls, he's done it! Yes, ma'am—that handsome gent, that idol of all feminine hearts, Fred MacMurray has just blossomed out with a brand-new moustache, a moustache which tickles lovely Carol Lombard every time he kisses her in their new comedy-romance "True Confession," which is the feature picture next Monday and Tuesday at the Capitol Theatre, with John Barrymore sharing co-starring honors with the romantic pair.

In adopting a moustache, MacMurray is following a precedent laid down by other famous leading male stars of the screen—that when they make the change from "juvenile" roles to more "grown-up" characterizations, they must acquire a moustache to mark the occasion.

You'll recall that Clark Gable and Ronald Colman, both handsome stars of scores of film successes, started out clean-shaven, and both acquired moustaches in the course of their swing upward to film immortality. And so popular were the new "moustached" Gable and Colman that when producers made Colman remove his moustache for his roles in "Clive of India" and "A Tale of Two Cities" film fans the country over raised such a storm of protest that Gable's producers, who had insisted that he shave cleanly for his part in "Parnell," were quick to capitulate and agree to permit him to keep the moustache, which they had originally refused to do.

With Fred MacMurray's moustache, the case is identical. When the popular star read the script of "True Confession," he decided that the role which he had been assigned, that of a young lawyer struggling to get a foothold in a professional career, called for someone who looked as though he wanted to impress prospective legal clients with the fact that he was a serious, earnest person. This type of young lawyer, MacMurray argued, would certainly grow a moustache in order to accomplish this effect.

And that's how come girls, he's done it!

TIBETANS SAY "HELLO" BY STICKING THEIR TONGUE OUT

It is a well-known fact that guests are generally frowned upon by the busy Hollywood studios. Hence, visitors to the Columbia Studios recently were alarmed when, upon stepping onto the set where Frank Capra was directing Ronald Colman in "Lost Horizon," the picturization of James Hilton's novel of high adventure and romance, showing Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week at the Capitol Theatre, they were greeted by people who walked up to them with upturned palms and stuck out their tongues.

No disrespect was intended, however. The setting of "Lost Horizon" is Forbidden Tibet, and the act is an old Tibetan gesture of friendship.

The significance of this salute in a land where every man carries a gun and is a law unto himself, was explained by Harrison Forman, writer, explorer and authority on Tibet, who acted as technical advisor on the elaborate film.

It means "I have no evil on my tongue and no weapon in my hand." "Lost Horizon," showing for the first time at popular prices, was adapted to the screen by Robert

AGRICULTURE IN U. K.

Under the provisions of the British Agricultural Act of 1937, which aims at enriching the soil in order to produce greater production, the British government has authority to reimburse the farmers for 50 per cent of the cost of the lime and 25 per cent of basic slag fertilizers applied to their land. The Act affects Canada in so far as the better feed for live stock should increase the demand in the United Kingdom for store cattle.

HEALTHY CAULIFLOWERS

Interesting information on the effect of the insufficiency of boron in cauliflower plants was brought to light in an experiment at the laboratory of the Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. It was found that boron is essential for the growth of normal healthy cauliflowers. Insufficient boron will produce small, curled, incompletely developed and brown in color, and will cause stunting and deformation of the leaves immediately surrounding the curd. Insufficient boron will also result in the appearance of brownish, water-soaked areas in the flesh and stalk.

LIVE STOCK BEDDING

Straw is the bedding material for live stock almost universally used on the farm in Canada. It will absorb two to three times its weight of liquid. Peat moss used as bedding will absorb about ten times its weight of liquid. Other suitable kinds of bedding for live stock are sawdust and air-dried duck and peat.

Production of apricots in Canada is practically limited to British Columbia.

Swanscombe, in Kent, England, is the only town in Great Britain with a population of 5,000 without either a general post office or a bank.

The ages of 20 to 25 are the most expensive to insure to insurance companies in England.
